EVERY MAN HIS OWN WEATHER OBSERVER.

IN the present day there is no doubt an increasing appreciation for such instruments as will enable observers to foretell weather changes. The interest thus shown by the public has to a considerable extent helped to push forward the manufacture of Barcmeters of every description. Those we are at present offering are not in expensive forms of cases, but they are nevertheless elegant in appearance and compact enough to find appropriate places on a wall in any home ; and we offer them at such prices as will place them within the reach of everybody.

THE BAROMETER is an absolute

A SAFE REMEDY FOR ALL SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES.

If you suffer from any disease due to the impure state of the Blood, FROM WHATEVER CAUSE ARISING, or should test the value of Clarke's Blood Mixture, the world-famed Blood Purifier and Restorer. This medicine has for years, reputation, and is to-day more popular than ever: the reason of this being undoubtedly because this wonderful remedy does what it professes to do—IT CURES SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES PERMANENTLY.

Clarke's Blood Mixture

IS THE FINEST BLOOD PURIFIER EVER DISCOVERED.

It is warranted to cleanse the blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. e.g.,

SCROFULA,	BAD LEGS,
SCURVY	BLOTCHES,
ECZEMA	SPOTS,
BLOOD POISON,	BLACKHEADS
ULCERS,	PIMPLES,
SKIN & BLOOD DISEASES,	AND SORES OF ALL KINDS

It is a safe and Permanent Remedy.

It is the only real specific for Gout and Rheumatic Pains, for it removes the cause from the Blood and Bones.

NOTE This mixture is pleasant to the taste and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, from infancy to old age, and the Proprietors solicit sufferers to give it a trial, to test its value.

Thousands of wonderful cures have been effected by it.

TRIED MANY THINGS WITHOUT BENEFIT UNTIL TOOK CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE.

Mr. F. H. Lewis, 48, Bridge Street Row, Chester writes :—"Just a line in favour of 'Clarke's Blood Mixture.' I had eczema for seven months, and tried many things without benefit until I took your remedy. After the eighth bottle I was quite well again. Please accept this letter as a token of gratitude to your wonderful 'Clarke's Blood Mixture.'"—June 18, 1908.

IMPURITIES IN THE BLOOD.—"We have seen hosts of letters from all sorts and conditions of people, in which the writers acknowledge the benefit they have received from Clarke's Blood Mixture, which as a curative agent cannot be too highly estimated, since it cleanses and clears the blood from all impurities, and restores it to its normal condition." This is a good testimonial from the Family Doctor the popular medical weekly, which goes on further to say: "It is certainly the finest blood purifier that science and skill have brought to light, and we can, with the utmost confidence, recommend it to our subscribers and the public generally."

Sold by all Chemists and Patent Medicine Vendors throughout the World.

MR. HENRY DURHAM, for fifty years science master at the City of London School, has been entertained at a banquet on the occasion of his retirement. In his speech Mr. Durham, recalling his early days as a teacher, quoted some amusing answers by his boys. On one occasion he set as a question, "Define a neutral salt," adding as a rider, "What are its properties ?" A boy wrote, "I know very little about sailors of any description, but I should say that in the late engagement between the Kearsarge and the Alabama those on board the Deerhound were neutral salts and superior to the others because in the one case they were greenbacks and in the other they were percipitated to the bottom."

"BOMBAY IN THE MAKING."

We have already announced the forthcoming publication of a volume which will be of great interest not only to lawyers in Bombay, but to the reading public in general. We are, of course, referring to Mr. Phiroze Malabari's book entitled "Bombay in the Making" which is expected to be published within a month. As an official of the High Court, Mr. Malabari will be admitted to have the necessary qualification to write a book which deals mainly with the origin and growth of judicial institutions in this Presidency at the end of the seventeenth and beginning of the eighteenth centuries It may not be generally known that young Mr. Malabari is a practised writer, for before he entered Government service, he used to write constantly in his father's well-known paper, the "Indian Spectator," and we believe even now he helps his father in editing the premier Indian Review, "East and West". The early publication of this book will be looked forward with enhanced interest now that it has been known that Sir George Clarke has written an eloquent Introduction to this volume. Such a recommendation from so distinguished a writer cannot but enhance the value of the book. From the prospectus we gather that the book which covers over 500 pages, is divided into twelve chapters, and each chapter has its own tale to tell which will be new to most readers. We are glad to find that Mr. Malabari has devoted an entire chapter to the most famous of our early Governors, Gerald Aungier : indeed, such a volume would be incomplete without a complete sketch of that far-sighted man, for it was he who first unveiled the face of Justice in Bombay. To show that Mr. Malabari has taken a very wide survey, it may be mentioned that he has devoted two chapters on Landed Tenures in Bombay, a subject which ever delighted that learned Bombay civilian, Francis Warden. There must be much in this book which will be quite new to the majority of readers, for the author has had access to original records. Mr. Malabari deserves well of Bombay, and we hope Bombay will give the volume a hearty welcome when it is published.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN IN FACTORIES.

REGARDING the employment of women and children near openers in Factories the following circular has been issued by Government :—

Government have recently received a report of a disastrous fire in a cotton press factory at Dondaicha in West Khandesh. The fire originated in the opener, in front of which some women were at work. Four of them were burnt to death on the spot, and two more died shortly after as the result of the injuries they received. Only one man was injured and that slightly.

In view of the distressing frequency of such accidents it seems necessary to call the attention of owners of cotton press factories to the grave danger incurred by women and children who are permitted to work in the vicinity of the opener.

The danger is twofold. In the first place stones mixed with the cotton are occasionally hurled with great force from the opener. A second and far greater danger is the risk of the outbreak of fire, owing to the ignition of matches present in the raw cotton, or to sparks caused by stones or similar bodies coming into contact with exposed portions of the metal work inside the opener. The air in the neighbourhood of the opener is filled with floating particles of cotton ; and the opener is surrounded by large quantities of cotton in a loose fluffy condition. A single spark is enough to set the whole room in ablaze in an instant.

Experience has shown that when such fires occur, women are far more liable to injury than men. The men, who wear only a loin-cloth, escape as a rule with superficial injuries at most : but the women are completely covered by their 'saris,' one end of which they frequently wrap over their faces to keep off the dust. The cotton fluff, with which the air is filled, settles on the 'saris,' and when a fire breaks out the wearers are immediately enveloped in flames and cannot see in which direction to run. Thus it has happened that while only three death among male workers are known to have occurred as the result of fires near openers, more than twenty women have in the last few years met their death from this cause.

The only means of preventing such accidents is the absolute prohibition of the employment of women near the opener. Children should also be forbidden to work there, as in the event of a fire, they would be so terrified as to be unable to escape.

The Bill for amending the factory law, which is at present before the Government of India, contains a clause prohibiting the employment of women and children near openers. In the meantime, until the Bill is passed, cotton press owners are earnestly desired, on the ground of humanity, and of their own motion, to discontinue entirely the employment of women and children in any part of a cotton press where an opener is at work, and to employ men only in the process of beating and mixing. When presse are let out to contractors, the prohibition of the employment of women and children in the press should be made an express condition in the agreement.

BOMBAY UNIVERSITY SCIENCE COURSES.

AT the adjourned meeting of the Senate to be held on Friday afternoon next, Dr. Bhandarkar has given notice of the following amendment to the proposals of the Hon'ble Mr. W. H. Sharp for the omission of the Science branches from the B.A. and M.A. courses :—That the B.Sc. degree be abolished, that there should be two courses for the B.A. degree, viz, Literary or A course and the Science or B course ; that students should choose either of these courses after the Previous Examination ; that the curriculum for the Intermediate and B.A. Examinations in the A or Literary course should be the same as these laid down for the corresponding examinations for the B.A. degree at present and those for the corresponding examinations in the B or Science course the same or others that may be laid down by the Science Committee appointed by the Syndicate for the Intermediate or B.Sc. degree ; that those taking up the A or Literary course should not be eligible for the special degree of M.A. in Science, while it should be open to those who take the B course ; that the English text books for the Intermediate and the B.A. in the A or Literary course should be compulsory or those taking the B course ; that the Syndicate be requested to frame rules and curricula in accordance with these principles and submit them to the Senate as early as possible.

Mr. K. R. Godbole, B.A., M.C.E., has given due notice to move :—(1) That the B. Sc. course be revised so as to include "English with Composition" same as for the B. A. course, and the course be made of 4 terms after passing the "Intermediate in Science" similar to B. A. course. (2) That the Science Branches be omitted from the M. A. course, and they should be included after requisite modifications in the course for a new degree to be called the M. Sc. degree. (3) That the Syndicate be requested to submit proposals for giving effect to the above changes.

Principal A. L. Covernton, M.A., will move in proposition (1) : That the words after 'optionals' be omitted and the following be substituted in their place : "be retained in the B.A. course provided that they are revised and that the total number of subjects required from candidates is reduced," and in proposition (3) : That the words 'after submit' be omitted and the following be substituted in their place :—"revised courses under the Science optionals."

Mr. D. G. Padhye, M.A., will move to add to the resolution that "special facilities be given for enabling a B.A. to take the B.Sc. degree after not more than a year's study."

CALCUTTA AND WOMEN'S RIGHTS.

CALCUTTA must be very badly off for amusements just now that its prominent citizens must needs take the Town Hall for a discussion on the subject of Women's rights. Mrs. S. P. James is evidently a strong-minded lady, consumed with a desire to wake up her sisters to a sense of what is due to them ; but her energy and her talents are wasted in this country. She should be with the ladies who declared their intention of forcing Parliament to pass the Suffrage Bill next Session whether it wants to or not. Her powers and inclinations would have more scope. We fully agree with Messrs. Molesworth and Pitman in their view that the time has scarcely arrived for the consideration of such a question in India, and endorse their deprecation of the attitude assumed by women at home which has depressed rather than fanned the fire of enthusiastic sympathy. But Mrs. James ridiculed both her opponents. The men, said she, fear that women, if granted the vote, will lose womanliness and charm. They fear that the vote will cause dissension in the home. They fear that votes for women will pave the way to adult suffrage. They fear that enfranchised women will forfeit much of that so-called respect which the chivalry of men has conceded to her, and so on. Mrs. James said that where these arguments are not ridiculous or entirely irrelevant to the question at issue, they are mutually self-destructive. People afflicted with fears of this kind Mrs. James referred to the experience of countries where woman had enjoyed the franchise for years—Tasmania, New Zealand and Australia among them. Well, few of her hearers are likely to go to any of these countries for the sake of studying the question for themselves, but before throwing in their lot with the suffragists or suffragettes, we would recommend them to read what Mrs. Beatrix Tracy has to say of the subject in a concise little article in the current number of the "National Review." Is the New Woman helping woman ? is the question she discusses. Is woman's dignity enhanced or destroyed by general competition with man ? Is her welfare to be served or attacked by an extension of her chances of economic independence ? In industry, in education, in politics, has the New Woman movement advanced her sex ? Mrs. Tracy sought enlightenment on these points by an attempt to study the facts, directly, on her own account and visited Australia for the purpose, spending a period of inquiry as a worker in all the industries open to women. She worked and lived among the women who enjoy—"or more accurately who endure"—the inestimable privilege of equality with men.

Mrs. James might read Mrs. Tracy with profit if not with conviction. But one paragraph disposes of the whole of Mrs. James's doctrines. Says Mr. Tracy : The feminine industrials in Australia have the vote, though most of them are too exhausted by the struggle for a livelihood to take any particular interest in the national well-being. The men they work with treat them like brothers—that is, they do not show them any of that tenderness or consideration which once was yielded to woman. The workers are, indeed, free women—free from all security and guardianship, or even help, except from such sources as the sweethearts who may take them back into the eternal bonds of home and matrimony, or the benevolent institutions which do their best to cover those who are so worn out by the privileges that they are too weak to shattered to take any further advantage them. Those lucky Australian women their industrial paradise have the liberties of men—and also the pr... They very seldom have any of the ... tions, or the sheltered happin... women. Mrs. Tracy found not one] industry except domestic service entirely suitable to women. Factory and shop work—to take two as examples—entail an unwholesome physical strain ; and all branches of feminine employment are underpaid, compared with male wage-rates. It may be argued, she observes, that these drawbacks could be remedied by legislation. They might be, but legislation can never make a successful industrialist out of a human being, whose natural desire is for a mate and children and whose innate ambition is to return to that point at which she stood, before the New Woman discovered and gave her to eat of the sour apple of sex equality. No body of woman workers were as healthy and as happy as those following domestic work whether inside or outside their own homes. They are as a class wholesome and womanly, whilst every other type of industrial female worker showed a physical and, to Mrs. Tracy's mind, a character deterioration. While as to those in professional employment, woman "emncipated" did not seem to achieve as real a happiness as the woman left in "bondage."

There are in Mrs. Tracy's article statements which only a woman dare make. As for instance : "Often a masculine mind rankles in a woman's body. In that case she has no aptitude or liking for a woman's natural sphere ; and sober divergence from her sex's path is no serious matter. She is the exception which serves to prove the rule of feminine unsuitability to men's pursuits and interests—a phenomenon who combines the attributes of man and woman, and so may live the life of one in the form of the other." Mrs. James referred her hearers on Tuesday evening to Australia among other places as to the value of the woman suffrage. Mrs. Tracy tells us in Australia it has had no particular effect either for good or evil. In New Zealand it is now shaping as a factor and there as in America the results show in an alcoholic liquor prohibition movement "which may be credited with good intentions, but has few good results and many evil ones." Reading her record of personal experiences and the result of her observations many people will be forced to her conclusion that there is really nothing of sound or worthy achievement to be credited to the New Woman movement and that in some respects it has been very mischievous. It has not made women happier or more useful. "Women, according to the new movement, were to be highly educated so as to take them as far out of woman's sphere as possible. A better ideal surely would be to give woman the greatest possible intellectual expansion so that she may use it to make her home more gracious, her mateship more complete, her motherhood more perfect." This is a higher ideal than Mrs. James propounded the other evening, notwithstanding her remarkable power of declamation and her chain of sonorous sentences. Mrs. Tracy's sentiments ring truer than Mrs. James's, and will have a more far-reaching effect, while to lecture on woman suffrage in Calcutta is but to beat the air. If the meeting were merely got up for an evening's diversion it was but a poor form of entertainment, though perhaps a welcome relief from the perpetual round of song and dance.

A NEW PARSI HOLIDAY.

THE death-day of Zoroaster which fell last week was observed by the Parsis with somewhat more zeal and solemnity than usual, because this year for the first time Government recognised it as a holiday of this community in the list which it annually publishes of native holidays to be allowed to its employes. It is curious that in the list that solemn festival has never been included till the present year, and still more curious that during all these years Government has never been asked by the Parsis themselves to include it. Only last year the community awoke to the fact that the non-recognition of one of their most solemn festivals as a holiday by the authorities was not proper, and consequent upon an agitation carried on with some vigour in their newspapers, the Parsi Association took up the matter and appealed to Government to do the needful by granting this as a Parsi holiday. This appeal has been successful and last Monday was declared a sectional Parsi holiday by the Government. The Parsis are duly grateful for this, and they passed a vote of thanks to the authorities for thus promptly granting their request, at a public ceremonial meeting on the festival day. This festival of the death of Zorooster in spite of its original solemnity has fallen somewhat into desuetude among Parsis themselves for a considerable time past. They neglected to commemorate the death of their prophet in a worthy manner, though the commemoration of all their departed worthies is a principal article of their faith. Of recent years there has been an awakening in this as in other religious matters, and owing to the exertions of some enthusiasts the Parsis have now learnt to take greater interest in this festival. On former occasions we recounted at some length the way in which Zorooster closed his prophetic career by martyrdom at the hands of the enemies of the new faith that he preached. These circumstances of his martyrdom were recalled to people's memory by sermons and lectures on the day, which was kept with great enthusiasm by Parsis all over India. From all the great centres of their population in this Presidency reports have arrived that this year there was ext... seal, chiefly because the large nu... LABOURITE FOLLY.

THE Labour Ex... changes, which Mr Winston Churchill re... cently set up in England are furnishing an excellent example of the futility of listening seriously to the Labour Party in the House of Commons. Before they had them, they clamoured for them, now they have got them they do not want them. The Federation of Trade Unions has issued circulars on the subject, and through its managing committee is pestering the Labour Department of the Board of Trade with complaints. Not, mark you, because any unexpected development has arisen, not because there is any complaint of the administrators of the Act, but because it has had been descovered that danger "is inherent in the system of labour exchanges." This is the statement of Mr. Appleton, the Federation Secretary, while one of the manifestoes talks about the danger incidental to the Act, against which it is necessary that those most interested should be forearmed. After all what are these dangers and what is the Federation's complaint ? It seems to be this, that since the Labour exchanges have been established, the employers are using them ; and as they use them, it may be possible that they may engage men through the exchange during a strike for the purpose of strike-breaking. This is how the Federation puts it:—"The exchanges are absorbing one of the most important functions of a trade union—that of finding situations for its unemployed. They offer new and quite inexpensive opportunities for employers to obtain contact with workers whose misfortunes have weakened their capacity for individual bargaining and have become a comparatively easy prey to the employer who has no conscience where wages are concerned and who will have no scruple about using the exchanges for strike breaking purposes." Of course the exchanges offer "new and inexpensive opportunities for employers to obtain contact with workmen" because that is what they were made for and as for strike-breaking since when has the trade unionist had the right to say, "As I will not work neither shall my brother." In any event the circumstances of which complaint is made could easily have been foreseen and must have been foreseen. It would be difficult to find stronger evidence of the fact that the Labourites themselves do not know what they want.

THE Lords of the Admiralty have approved of Engineer-Lieutenant P. Howe, now serving in the Dockyard Branch of the Admiralty, being lent to the Canadian Government for service as consulting engineer on the Headquarters Staff at Ottawa, in connection with the organisation of the Canadian Navy. He obtained the £50 Whitworth Exhibition in 1892 and the £60 National Scholarship in the following year.

THERE is a likelihood, writes a "Pall Mal Gazette" correspondent, that the whole British Army will, before long, be rearmed with a new rifle of smaller bore than the present. It is understood that the War Office Committee, which has been considering the subject, are in favour of that course. With a bullet smaller in diameter than the one now in use, and furnished moreover with a sharply-pointed and instead of a round nose, the resistance of the air to its passage is greatly diminished, and with a powerful charge to impart a very high initial velocity it has been found that an almost flat trajectory is possible, even where th... marksman and the object aimed at are a great distance apart. Another consideration is that the new rifle would be somewhat lighter than the old, and the ammunition would also be lighter, round for round, both important advantages.

ART, MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

SIR CONAN DOYLE'S NEW PLAY.

Some London Exhibitions.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, JUNE 10.

PLEASANT little exhibition of the work of some of the French Romanticists, of Fantin and others is to be seen in New Bond St. Among the pictures not exactly unfamiliar, but certainly not well-known in London, is the portrait of Corot, by Daubigny; the rustic Corot, with blue blose, with straw hat and clay pipe, masquerading a little perhaps as the son of the soil—as even the most serious of the French painters love to masquerade—but still, with deadly intent upon his work. The picture recalls a bright Barbizon tale which was common enough at Strons in the early eighties. Often at that time there sat, always prominently, at meals an indifferent painter named Camille Paris, large, genial, rosund, hoarse and noisy in manner, fat-fingered, wide-nuffed, somewhat luscious in conversation—one who had painted a big bull in a big landscape, and sold it to the Government, gaining added importance there from. The story went that Paris, striding one day through the forest to his work, with his huge picture strapped upon his back, happened upon a humble peasant-painter, struggling painfully with a modest canvas—struggling to "convey" the shimmer of a little "etang" and a grey tree which somehow seemed to evade him that morning. The great man was in a melting mood, and stooped to encourage, and—so the story went—even to assist, taking the brushes in his hand and adding some big splashes and daubs to show how the thing might be done. You may be sure that the other was grateful enough, standing by, obviously impressed by both advice and example. At last Camille Paris had to go on his greater enterprise, but not before he invited the modest one—who showed some promise—to call upon him. As a final blow of encouragement, he announced, with the simplicity of acknowledged merit, "I am Camille Paris ; what is your name?" The peasant-painter bowed low before success so obvious and unattainable. "My name," he said, "is also Camille—Jean Baptiste Camille Corot"!

MR. MACLAUGHLAN'S ETCHINGS.

A comprehensive exhibition of the etchings of Mr. D. S. MacLaughlan, one of the few contemporary etchers who count—who deserve serious consideration as an inheritor of the great tradition was opened this week. One can call his exhibition comprehensive because it may be accepted as a fairly complete survey of Mr. MacLaughlan's work with the needle but in another sense it seems merely introductory to what this artist could do and may do in the future. For it is the work of an etcher who is still a student and it contains many echoes—echoes of Rembrandt, of Whistler, of Meryon, of Haden; echoes of Mr. Hedley Fitton even—and it is not until the most recent work that one seems to find Mr. MacLaughlan himself, free at last from the domination of the asters upon whom he has—quite wisely—founded his method. It is then—as, for example, in the delightful little plate "The Salute"—that one recognises a freedom and a flexibility of line that are his own. Too many of the designs depend upon elaboration of detail ; upon fatigued and sometimes unmeaning work which attempts to translate tones or values, and does not frankly accept the limitations of the etched line. But it is hard to lay down a canon of etching, for even Meryon in architectural details was sometimes a harassed engraver, and Rembrandt himself in many of his etched portraits frankly imitated his own methods as a painter. Spontaneity, freshness, and a flowing line that seems to have answered perfectly to the mood are the qualities for which one looks, and beyond these there stands the artist whose possibilities are undefinable. It is hardly to be doubted that Mr. MacLaughlan's work in the future will deal more with elemental facts and less with inconsequential details, and that he will revise his opinion of not a few of the plates that he shows to-day.

THE BAILLIE GALLERY.

Messrs. Baillie and Gardiner are exhibiting, at their Galleries in Bruton-street, a series of drawings by Mr. J. W. Herald, a Scottish artist whose work has not hitherto been seen in London. It is greatly to the credit of Messrs. Baillie and Gardiner that they have the courage to give prominence to the product of unrecognised talent, from whatever quarter it comes, and undoubtedly in the case of Mr. Herald they have "struck oil." Mr. Herald is a man of many moods, and has not, perhaps, a very strong personality of his own, but he is a colourist and has a dexterous method. His sense of season is almost Japanese in its perfection, and his broad washes of colour are punctuated with just the right note of emphasis. One imagines him as a brilliant sketcher, with a power of arrangement of both mass and space, but his direct transcripts from nature are few in number, and seem in almost every case to have suffered from subsequent revision. One classes him roughly at present with Mr. Nicholson and Mr. Pryde, but it may be hoped that the encouragement of this exhibition will lead him to more direct sketching, in which his own charming colour and method may have their fuller opportunity.

THE DEBUSSY CULT.

The first performance this season of "Pelleas et Melisande" at Covent Garden was an event of interest last night, and it would be pleasant to be able to add that it was obviously regarded as such by the house at large. In point of actual fact, however, a by no means overflowing house received the work with only a very moderate amount of enthusiasm. Apparently the Debussy cult has not yet made much headway with Covent Garden's supporters; and this is certainly a pity, for if the work were more attractive the result would be clear gain. It is obviously much better to like a new work if it is possible to do this, for in that way your stock of æsthetic pleasures is increased ; but it is worse than useless to pretend that you are moved by music when this is not the case, and apparently this is the position of the average opera-goer regarding "Pelleas" at present. Speaking from the personal point of view, further hearing of the work last night failed to bring any greater appreciation of those beauties which it is alleged to contain, or to make it any less tedious to sit out than before. Of course there is much alike in the drama and the music that can be spoken of more favourably. In the case of the latter one can admire unreservedly the refinement delicacy, and subtlety of it all. Debussy's instruments talk in whispers, but with an amount of cleverness which up to a point is undeniable. The unfortunate part of the matter is that they have so little that is really interesting to say—so little in the way of ideas genuinely beautiful and of real musical worth. From purely atmospheric point of view Debussy's music is clever enough; but a whole evening of atmosph... becomes very monotonous. DR. SAINT-SAENS IN...

The concert given by M. Jose... Queen's Hall to celebrate the two... of his first appearance in En... attended, and went off well. Th... invaluable assistance from M. Ys... Dr. Saint-Saens ; the last-named ... appearing in person, but contrib... in the programme. It might ... concert, in fact. Whether the French master's music has sufficient variety and intensity of mood for a whole concert may, perhaps, be doubted ; it would be heard in its best form with orchestra, of course, for his ability as an orchestrator is great, and that the instrumental colouring adds considerably to the general appeal of his works, need hardly be said. He had composed a piece expressly for this concert, a duo for violin and violoncello, and with orchestral accompaniment, which, however, on this occasion, had to be replaced with that of the pianoforte played by the composer himself. Here was certainly a case where an orchestral complement was missed, and though M. Ysaye and the concert-giver played the solo parts in their accustomed finished style, the music did not seem to have any exceptional value. With the help of M. Pugno a characteristic performances of the Scherzo for two pianofortes was undertaken by Dr. Saint-Saens, this facile, and, in its own way, brilliant movement, being received with great applause.

MISCHA ELMAN REFUSES.

M. Mischa Elman's concert, given on Saturday afternoon at the Queen's Hall, was the occasion of his reappearance in London after a successful American tour, and one found the Russian violinist's playing quite as attractive as ever. Indeed, it has matured considerably, and although there are still traces of the unreserved style of playing which leads to roughness and slight deviation from strict intonation, and for which the exuberance of youth is responsible, there is no lessening in those qualities due to a real individuality. In playing the Brahms M. Elman gave perhaps of his best, and that was extremely good in every respect. A slight detail of indecision in the treatment of the dotted quaver rhythm, which was made for lack of breadth at important places, may be mentioned, otherwise the sentiment of the expression was most refined and the technical execution wholly admirable. Saint-Saens's on the whole dull work in B minor, was played with plenty of vitality, and after a concerto of Nardini the "Preislied" was given as an encore—this, it seemed, with some lack of sympathy.

"THE SPECKLED BAND."

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, in his new, play. "The Speckled Band," adapted from one of his own stories, and presented with every sign of popular approval at the Adelphi introduces us once more to our old friend Sherlock Holmes. We have to wait for the second act before we meet him, but the moment he enters we find him unchanged, the face as pale and generally cadaverous as of yore, the utterance as cool and collected, the dressing-gown as fantastic, the powers of divination as prodigious. The trembling young heroine of the play, Enid Stonor, step-daughter of a certain sinister Anglo-Indian, Dr. Grimesby Rylott, who has designs on her fortune, has come all the way from Stoke Priors to Stoke Moran, to consult him ; and, after one lightning glance at her sleeve, he informs her that she has been conveyed to him in a dog-cart, drawn by a white horse, and over a country of clay soil. And when the girl tells him of her sister's mysterious death, of her own fears, and of her grim stepfather, the Wise One just half-closes his eyes, nods his head, mutters "Ah !—India !—Um ! and we all know that he has half solved the mystery already. He fetches a Bradshaw and looks out the next train for Stoke Moran, and duly turns up at Stoke Place disguised as the Doctor's new butler. Then, of course, things begin to happen. Stoppage has a little chat with Enid, which he is about to finish by strangling her, when enter the new butler, who, in reply to the Doctor's threat of a whipping, draws his revolver, and as the medical gentleman cringing like a terrified rabbit and the audience shouting itself hoarse. And in the end the Doctor is hoist with his own petard ; or, to put it more precisely is bitten to death by a cobra he had been training to destroy Enid; and the curtain finally falls on the wicked one's more meeting with that just doom which for many decades past they have been meeting on the stage of this popular temple of English melodrama. The... has always been a public for this sort of thing, ... probably always will be while writers so adept as ... Arthur Conan Doyle condescend to the somewhat humble task of writing it. "The Speckled Band" is a long drop from "The House of Temperley," which had quite exceptional merits as a historical piece of the sporting England of seventy years ago; ... it has its sustained melodramatic interest and ... creepy intermittent thrills, and it is aspitally act... notably by Miss Christine Silver, as the tremb... Contradictory Statements.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

RANGOON, JUNE 29.

In the case against Mr. Dalrymple Clark to-day, the Chief Judge admitted Mr. Clark's testimony through his solicitors in London in the official enquiry ordered by the Secretary of State. This will have an important bearing on the case, for then Mr. Clark said, (1) he knew nothing of the firm Green and Co., (2) he never sold to the Steels the animals Maud and Thompson accounting for their disappearance from the Kheddhas by saying, one died and the other bolted into the jungle. These statements are not in accordance with his admissions and the facts, brought out in the trial in Rangoon.

MR. OSCAR BARROW'S SUCCESSOR.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

ALLAHABAD, JUNE 29.

Mr. W. Ogilvy remains in charge temporarily at the departure of Mr. R. W. Gillan, who takes over the Comptroller Generalship from Mr. Oscar Barrow, of these Provinces, says the Pioneer. It will be a most serious loss to the local Government, for he was qualis non alius in the position of Financial Secretary. Besides being an excellent office man, he showed himself open minded, his liberality was blessed with the art of exposition and his statements have been not only clear but interesting. Even Mr. Gillan too possesses the very important gift, in a Financial Secretary of these times, of being a ready speaker. Never at any difficulty to hold his own in the Council he could turn the edge of a rhetorical attack the most effective way, with good-tempered banter. The Government of India, in marking Mr. Gillan for advancement, has shown, at any rate, it bears no grudge for his remonstrances against the financial treatment of the Provinces. He has been more outspoken sometimes than would have been judicious in an official, who was thinking of his own prospects.

So far as the Civil Account Code is concerned, matters have reached the stage of examining the revised draft that has recently been prepared. The whole question of amending these rules and regulations is very difficult, and the process of revision is bound to take time.

As several squirrels also died as suddenly in the same vicinity, the authorities suspected foul play by the mango fruit proprietors of the neighbourhood. Post mortem examinations revealed no traces of deleterious matter. At the same time reports were received of heavy mortality among monkeys at Bulandshahr.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

ALLAHABAD, JUNE 29.

Private advices from home to the contrary, the "Pioneer" has good reason for believing Mr. Gupta's chances of securing the Revenue Membership, is not so bright as some people imagine. There is no particular reasons why Mr. Gupta should be appointed to the post, and if Lord Morley ever contemplated such an appointment, it is now fairly certain he has changed his mind. A Marhatta woman was observed passing on to the Poona platform with two platform tickets she had purchased just before the arrival of a passenger train from the South Eastern Section. The ticket Collectors had their attention rivetted on the woman. As the train drew up near the platform she was seen to hand one platform ticket over to a passenger who it subsequently transpired was a relative of her's. She with the passenger were taken before the Stationmaster on duty who ordered their prosecution. Mr. Lawrie of the London Salvage Corps accompanied by Mr. J. Stewart of Messrs. Alcock Ashdown and Co. set off to make a survey on behalf of the underwriters of the s.s. "Trafalgar" which recently was beached with her cargo of coal on fire near Janjira. They left Bombay by the Bombay Steam Navigation Company's steamer "Mahanadi" which presently stopped off the ship where the "Trafalgar" was lying. The two gentlemen then put off in one of the ship's boats which was in charge of the second officer, a Mahomedan, and was manned by a crew of Lascars. The boat made for the shore, but had not gone very far when a heavy rainstorm came on and obscured her from view. When the storm had passed the people on the ship were alarmed to find that the boat was not in sight and as soon as the tide had risen sufficiently the master of the "Mahanadi" put in nearer shore in the hope that the boat might be picked up. Nothing more however was seen of her or of any of her occupants. It was about eight o'clock in the morning when she left the ship and the "Mahanadi" remained in the neighbourhood until six in the evening. Then as nothing had been seen of her, she put back to Bombay and reported the occupants as missing. The Bombay S. N. Co. at once sent a message to their steamer at Marmagoa ordering her to keep a look-out and similar instructions were given to their boats leaving Bombay yesterday. They also telegraphed to the Diwan of Janjira.

Yesterday afternoon anxiety was relieved by the receipt of a telegram at the Company's office from the second officer announcing that all were safe. The communication was necessarily brief, but the boat appears to have been adrift for many hours. And eventually those on board her landed in the neighbourhood of Alibag. The telegram announcing their safety was despatched from the office at that place and they were expected to reach Bombay to-day.

NOTES ON INDIAN INTERESTS.

THOUGHTS BY A NATIVE THINKER.

THE ALL-INDIA MEMORIAL.

The official communique about the All-India Memorial of the late King will set at rest the controversy which had already commenced, as to the form it should assume and the site that should be chosen for it. We were threatened with a spirited and, perhaps, unseemly dispute as to whether Bombay or Calcutta should be selected for the honour. Indeed, both these cities are so much preoccupied by an overweening sense of their own dignity and importance, that they never bestowed a thought upon poor Madras, as a likely competitor, let alone Delhi and other historical places. We on this side were energetically pushing forward the claims of our own city which we still delight in holding up as "Urbs prima in India." The proud title, in so far as it rested on a numerical basis, was wrested from us awhile by Calcutta on the result of the last census. But the premier position of Bombay was restored to it, when on the initiative of our Health Officer, who was immediately concerned about his vital statistics, there was a second count of heads, which showed that we had suffered wrongly in our credit from an under-estimate. But we did not press our claim to the Imperial Monument on this ground alone. We are never weary of commending the city as the Gate of India. There was another cogent reason on our side, namely, that if the Queen Victoria Memorial was to be in Calcutta, the All-India Memorial of her son should be in Bombay. The contention was perfectly fair and reasonable that Calcutta must not have a monopoly of royal memorials. Verily, Calcutta would have pushed her pretence too far, if she had insisted on appropriating to herself the second memorial, as well. Our eagerness to have it in our midst was stimulated by the thought that it would be something on as grand and magnificent a scale as the big museum, which is to be set up, heaven knows when, to do honour to the Queen who is now dead about ten years. They are still labouring at the foundations. The scheme, as we all know, owes its inception to the magnificent imagination and imperial ideas of Lord Curzon. The partisans of the ex-Viceroy have not yet ceased bewailing that the one man who was capable of such vast conceptions has gone from our midst, and discussing the question of a United Memorial of King Edward, they shook their heads in despair that there was none left to approach the master in the conception of vast designs. Lord Minto did not, of course, come up to their beloved ideal. It may be lack of imagination or it may be modest wisdom, which is greater than flaring fancy, that commended to him the idea of an equestrian statue of the King : we may be sure it was the latter. Although the statue is estimated to cost five lakhs, the expenditure will be almost a trifle to that which is entailed by the Victoria Memorial. There will be no need to ask Rajas and Nawabs for princely donations, and no town of India will begrudge the monument to Delhi, which is to be the spot where it is to be erected. It will not be so very difficult for each province to contribute its own share. Had the memorial been something after the lavish and splendid style of the one which will commemorate the Queen in Calcutta, it might have excited inter-provincial jealousy, and might also have put a strain on the public resources. But the wisdom of Lord Minto has spared us the strain, as well as a possible feeling of envy. No better site could have been devised for the monument. Delhi may be regarded for the purpose as neutral ground. It is central. It was the seat of the Great Moguls, as well as of their predecessors, who decended upon the country and subjugated it. Its extensive ruins comprising seven different towns, all bearing the same name, are a melancholy testimony of Empires and dynasties which have long since gone to their rest. Many memories, many tragedies, are clustered round this great historic name. There was no other town in India which could have more appropriately held an imperial monument of the British rule.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS.

The speech with which the Governor closed the debate in the Legislative Council was marked by the characteristics which are common to his important public utterances. It was thoughtful and suggestive, and had the true ring of earnestness and sincerity about it. He observed that the new Council had commenced its work in an admirable spirit of co-operation for the public good, and added that for its future he, as well as his retiring colleague Sir John Muir-Mackenzie, had bright expectations. It will do all true patriots good to hear this. As this writer had himself ventured to prognosticate, the admission of the popular element to a share in the administration of the country was bound to promote harmony, correct errors and remove misapprehensions, and its salutary effects are already to be seen. H. E. the Governor has himself given one or two instances in point. He noted that one honourable non-official member was now convinced that the land assessment generally was fair and just. He was also glad to observe that another member had stated at the Satara District Conference that he fully realized how accessible the Government of Bombay was to all reasonable representations, and how ready it was to move, when it was convinced that such representations were for the good of the people. I have no doubt the Government will deserve such flattering testimonials still better with the lapse of time. The popular representatives are being imbued with a proper sense of responsibility, as forming part of the administration. They no longer feel a sense of isolation, hurling their passionate criticisms from afar. They are beginning to realize that the interests of the Government and the people are alike and cannot possibly be unlike. There is now less disposition to be carping and querulous, less readiness to attribute dark and sinister designs to official acts, or to condemn the bureaucracy as an evil in its very essense and nature. The bureaucracy, on the other hand, is, I believe, realizing its own altered position and the responsibility attached to it, and following the advice publicly given to it by Sir Edward Baker, Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, it is gradually adapting itself to it, so as to contribute its own share towards the success of the reforms. All will not be perfectly well either with Government officials, as a class, or with popular representatives immediately. The new spirit, engendered by the reforms, will gain upon them gradually. But the omens, up to now, all very favourable in Bombay and elsewhere. In this province, Sir George Clarke and his colleagues among whom Sir John Muir-Mackenzie deserves special mention, have set an excellent example to the services, as well as the public, by the way in which they have striven to give effect to the new scheme. When one beholds signs of contentment and blessedness around him, when he beholds a promise of abundant good in the future, it breaks his heart to witness the diabolical deeds of fools and villains.

OVERDOING IT.

If Mahomedans will only be able to perceive it, Sir George Clarke has done them a great service by addressing a remonstrance to those who have been persisting "ad nauseam" in the advocacy of what they urge as Moslem claims. The Hon. Mr. Rafiuddin repeated the same old story in the Council Chamber that Mahomedans were not adequately represented in the public service of the Presidency, and he made a grievance of it that they did not hold certain high offices as if they belonged to them of right. Among the Moslem advocates of their co-religionists, Mr. Rafiuddin may be given the palm for zealous indiscretion. As the Governor observed,—and this humble writer has stated the same thing on previous occasions,—a campaign on these lines will defeat its own object, and will have the effect of alienating the sympathy which the Government has for the community, and of which it has given abundant proof. Men of the Rafiuddin type are overdoing it, when they keep pestering the authorities with their well-worn cry. Now they urge the claim of their brethren on the ground of their backwardness, and, anon, on the ground that they have much advanced of late in education and enlightenment. It would appear from their agitation that the Government has been indifferent to Mahomedan claims in the past, and that in this respect it has been less than just and kind to them. As his Excellency plainly put it, the facts are quite the other way. "If those who believe," he said, "that Mahomedans do not get a proper share in the Government patronage were aware of the facts, they would know that the tendency has been, and is, in exactly the opposite direction." There are instances of Musalmans holding high posts, who, but for their being of this race, would not have been appointed to them, and whose places might have been easily filled by men of better qualifications and greater efficiency in other communities. I have noted in my own case that some Mahomedans are exceedingly sensitive to candid criticisms, and are too prone to believe that those who give them good advice and fair and timely warning are opposed to their interests. This is a great mistake. As Sir George Clarke has observed, the question is purely one of education, and now that Musalmans have gone in for it with laudable zeal, it will solve itself automatically.

DION.

RATNAGIRI WATER-SUPPLY.

Orders regarding certain questions connected with the water supply at Ratnagiri have been issued by Government.

Government have given careful consideration to the various proposals that have been made in connection with finance and future management of the water-works at Ratnagiri. They recognize that the Municipality deserves liberal treatment in settling the various questions that have arisen, and the Governor in Council trusts that the settlement contained in the orders in this Resolution will give satisfaction to all concerned.

(1) Government will defray the expenditure on account of the improvements now in progress at an estimated cost of Rs. 46,500.

(2) Government will take over the water-works and manage the distribution of the water up to a point to be determined as noted below, and will be prepared to pay off the existing debt of the Municipality, namely :—

(a) balance of the loan raised by the Municipality in 1880, which is reported to amount to Rs. 16,750 ;

(b) the loan taken from Mr. Phadke in 1884, which is reported to be Rs. 15,000.

(3) The total cost to Government of these proceedings will be Rs. 78,250.

(4) Government will supply the Civil Station and the Government institutions with water charging a fair rate.

(5) The balance of the water will be delivered to the Municipality at some convenient point and will be paid for by the Municipality by meter at a fair rate.

(6) The Municipality should charge users of the water so delivered to it either at the existing rate or at an enhanced rate if the regularity of the supply justifies enhancement.

(7) The Municipality will be called upon to pay Government a fair charge for the maintenance of the distribution system below the point described under (5) above.

(8) In view of the liberal terms outlined above, the Municipality should not be permitted to levy a house-tax on Government buildings.

(9) Government accept finally the charges on account of the khisti employed to carry water to the Lunatic Asylum under the orders contained in Government Resolution No. 574, dated the 3rd February 1910.

With reference to the liquidation of the debt due to Mr. Phadke or his heirs it appears from the Municipality's letter No. 163, dated the 21st March 1904, that the bond passed to him by that body contains a stipulation that the loan is to be repaid in 20 equal half-yearly instalments consisting of principal and interest, the first instalment being payable on the 30th April 1905, or on the date six months later than the date on which the prior loan of Rs. 30,000 raised in 1880 shall have been wholly liquidated, whichever is later, and until then only the interest on the loan is payable. In his memorandum No. MI.-218, dated the 29th July 1904, the Commissioner reported that the heirs of Mr. Phadke refused to accept the repayment of the loan in one lump sum. The Collector should again approach the heirs with the view of inducing them to alter this decision. If, however, they still refuse, he should report what settlement he would propose it being understood that the total cost of the arrangements to Government will not exceed the sum of Rs. 78,250 noted in paragraph 2 (3) above.

In the meantime a grant of Rs. 16,750, or such less sum as may now be required for the purpose, is sanctioned to enable the Municipality to pay off the balance of the debt raised in 1880. This grant should be debited to the grant of 8 lakhs entered in the budget, for sanitary improvements under "34, Medical." The Collector should report the liquidation of this loan and the exact sum that has been necessary for the purpose.

Orders regarding the water-rate to be charged by Government in the Civil Station and to Government institutions will issue hereafter.

The Collector should now inform the Municipality of these orders and settle in consultation with it and the Executive Engineer the point at which the balances of the water will be delivered to the Municipality for distribution. The Commissioner will no doubt be prepared to sanction under section 59 of the District Municipal Act any reasonable increase in the municipal water-rate that may be proposed.

MADRAS MUNICIPAL BUDGET.

Provision for New Works.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

MADRAS, JUNE 29.

A Government order accepting the Budget estimate of the Corporation of Madras for 1910-11 has been published. The estimate, after taking credit for a grant of 3 lakhs and a loan of 5 lakhs from Government for special water supply and drainage works, made provision for raising a loan of Rs. 2,30,000 in the open market for (1) the construction of an incinerator, Rs. 75,000 ; (2) contribution to Government of the Napier Bridge, Rs. 50,000 ; (3) the construction of a New Road from Mount Road to South Beach Road, Rs. 80,000, and (4) for the construction of a masonry bridge over the canal on the Seaway Road, Rs. 20,000.

A Provincial grant of 3 lakhs for water supply and drainage works for which credit has been taken in the budget is to be raised to 7 lakhs with reference to additional grant of 4 lakhs for the purpose provided in the civil budget estimate, but in view of this additional grant the loan of 5 lakhs which the Corporation proposed to take this year is to be reduced to one lakh. The Corporation's proposal to contribute Rs. 600 annually towards the upkeep of the Kalyani Hospital had been approved and that a motor fire-engine is to be purchased this year. A sum of Rs. 50,000 is provided in the estimate for opening up the congested areas and another Rs. 50,000 for acquiring the remaining portion of Vasarpadi Parcherry and constructing model houses thereon.

Among other items budgeted for this year are two new steam road rollers, a new motor car for the Corporation office and the installation of electric light in Mount Road and at a few important corners on other roads. The Milk depot was closed on 1st April last on the ground that it has not, during the short time during which it had been tried, been successful as a measure for checking infantile mortality and that its practical utility is not commensurate with its cost.

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.

HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL SESSIONS.

Babal Murder Case.

At the third sitting of the third Criminal Sessions of the Bombay High Court, yesterday, the Hon'ble Mr. Justice N. C. Macleod and a special jury consisting of Mr. M. B. Kinnear (Foreman); Mr. H. D. Ash; Mr. B. H. Duxbury; Mr. Rasjorji Serabsha Jamsetji, Mr. A. H. Hammond; Mr. J.V. Macdonald, Mr. Krishnarao Sadanand Dhariavan; Mr. Sadashiv Nanabhai Hate and Mr. E. Humphrey, resumed the hearing of the case in which Ramdayal Mohonlal, Nannoo Kalu, Lutchman Gopal, Owsan Matadin and Reghunandas Shevdayal were charged with the murder of Bai Jamnabai, widow of Damodar Lakhmidas Khimji, and abetment thereof, house-breaking by night and abetment thereof theft and abetment thereof, deceity and deceity with murder on the night of the 20th March last.

The Hon'ble Mr. M. R. Jardine, Acting Advocate-General, with Mr. Cyril Oliver, instructed by Mr. E. F. Nicholson, Public Prosecutor, appeared for the prosecution; Mr. Mirza Ali Akbar Khan, appeared for the first accused, while Mr. M. B. Colah, defended the other accused.

On the inquiry being resumed, the Advocate-General asked the Court's permission to recall the approver Sheonath, who had turned round the day before. Mr. Jardine said that Sheonath's hostility had taken the prosecution by surprise. It was true he had closed the cross-examination, but he now wanted to put in the approver's statement before the Magistrate for what it was worth. The approver had admitted that he knew some of the accused and he (counsel) wanted to get out of him what part of his statement before the Magistrate was true.

His Lordship remarked that the approver had said that the whole of his statement was false.

Mr. Jardine said that that was a general reply.

His Lordship told Mr. Jardine to reconsider the matter observing that it was not desirable to recall him.

Durgadin, the dismissed Bhaiya, was then cross-examined by Mr. Mirza. Witness said he had not told the first accused that Jamnabai was rich. The first accused had occasion to come to the bungalow of Jamnabai. Jamnabai slept in the room with the door fastened from inside, but she kept two windows open. She also used to fasten the door near the verandah before she went to sleep. He had never told the first accused that Jamnabai used to keep the door near the verandah open.

In answer to the Court witness said she never closed the door and two windows at the west.

Continuing, witness said he could see that door open from the compound. The first accused had never come into the bungalow at night. From the road between the Babu's bungalow and Jamnabai's bungalow, it could be seen that the door and the two windows were open. There were two windows near the staircase leading to the door of Jamnabai's room. From one of these windows, one could go up the roof of the verandah. Witness served Jamnabai for about two years. Jamnabai's husband was not on visiting terms with her. No one was present when the first accused spoke to the first witness about theft. He had told Jamnabai that the first accused was not a good man. Witness thought that as long as he was Jamnabai's watchman, the first accused would not dare to commit the theft. The first time he informed the police of this conversation was after the arrest of the first accused.

Re-examined, witness said, the first accused had assisted him in bringing up a cupboard into Jamnabai's sleeping room.

MR. ASTON'S EVIDENCE.

Mr. A. H. S. Aston, Chief Presidency Magistrate, examined by Mr. Jardine said on the 6th May last some of the accused were brought to him to make [illegible] then produced the confession of the [illegible]. He said there were no police inside [illegible]ors of the Court were shut. The interpreter [illegible]man and his clerk Mr. Vijaykar were [illegible]re the accused made his statement with[illegible]m that he was before a magistrate, he [illegible]d to make any statement and there were [illegible]ent. The other four accused were present [illegible]econd accused made his statement. No [illegible] of ill-treatment was made yet the persons [illegible]used were examined.

Witness next produced the confessions of the fifth and third accused. He said the same method was adopted in all the cases in recording the confessions. All the confessions were signed.

On the 10th May the fourth accused made his confession. Similar method was adopted in his case.

Cross-examined by Mr. Mirza, witness said, before the accused made their statements, he did not know what they were going to say. All the accused were brought in police custody. When the confessions were being recorded, the police were not visible. He did not see them go. He did not think that the accused were under the impression that if they made confessions, they would be pardoned. Witness could not say what the fifth accused meant by saying "I throw myself on the mercy of the Court." Sheonath was the first to make a confession. He did not know that Sheonath was pardoned.

Cross-examined by Mr. Kolah: Mr. Vincent made the application about the confessions. Mr. Bhabha had given him certain information and consulted him. Witness expressed a certain opinion. Witness had no statement whatever with him when the confession was being recorded. He was fully satisfied that the accused were then not in the custody of the police. By the answer of the third accused "I will be benefited if I told the truth," witness thought of some inducement and therefore, further questioned the accused and after that he recorded the confession.

Mr. Jardine tendered the confessions.

Mr. Mirza objected to their going in.

Mr. Jardine said that he was willing to let the [illegible]nt stand over.

[illegible]ected to their being read to the jury.

[illegible] said they were not concerned with [illegible] the present and all depended on [illegible]p was to direct the jury.

Mr. Kolah appealed to His Lordship not to admit the confessions as the accused were under the influence of the police.

Khanshed Framji Nariman, interpreter, deposed to his having interpreted the confessions and examined the persons of the accused.

The confessions were admitted without prejudice to Mr. Mirza's contention that they were inadmissible against his client.

Mr. Jardine then read the confessions to the jury.

Sitaram Tukaram, examined-in-chief, said he had a nursery garden at the bottom of Dongersey Road and knew the first accused. On the evening of the 20th March witness saw the first accused at about 10-45 p.m. was sitting with three bhaiyas in a gully near Jamnabai's stable. He happened to see them on his way home. He again saw these men there after fifteen months.

Cross-examined, witness said he had come late that night from his maternal uncle's house, as there was a festive gathering there. He heard of the murder at 2 p.m. the next day. That day he went to Poona on urgent business. Ten days after the occurrence he informed the police about this affair.

Shankardass Jethabhai, cousin of the deceased, deposed to his having got silver bars made from Sari embroideries about a year ago for Jamnabai. Witness said that Jamnabai was a married woman.

Cross-examination, witness said Jamnabai and her husband's relations were not on good terms. She had her savings from the allowance. Had she won the High Court suit, it would have been at the sacrifice of her husband's relations.

Khodabux Maderbux, a tailor, deposed to his having made three silk shirts for the second accused from one piece of silk cloth.

Kanaiyalal Lalta, tram conductor, examined by Mr. Jardine, said he knew the third and fifth accused and Sheonath. The third accused was living with the witness [illegible]

The fifth accused had com[illegible] room about light days b[illegible] lived there for about four d[illegible] one evening witness had [illegible] paper. Witness identified the paper of the petition as the one on which the fifth accused had written.

Cross-examined, witness said, he could not give the exact dates. The fifth accused knew how to read and write.

Ramcharan Ragunath deposed to the fifth accused writing a petition on two occasions. On the second occasion, he saw him write a petition on a paper like the one shown to him. The address on the envelope was that of the Police Commissioner. The fifth accused had told the witness that the first and second accused and the approver Sheonath had committed a murder at Walkeshwar, and Sheonath had told that to the fifth accused.

Cross-examined, witness said, he knew to read and write. He wrote in Balbodh, Nagri and Balbodh were the same. Witness posted the envelope containing a petition at the Kalbadevi Post Office. As far as he remembered, no stamp was affixed.

William J. Nolan, Senior Superintendent of Police, examined-in-chief, said he attended to official correspondence. He received the petition on the 28th April. The petition was written in Balbodh. The petition was transmitted to the head clerk. The head clerk's duty was to get it translated, and if it was important to place it before the Commissioner. There was no one in the office to translate it and it was subsequently translated by a subadar.

Superintendent Stanley O'Kieffe of the "A" division, deposed to having received a letter (shown to him) written in Balbodh. Witness could not make anything of it and hence sent for a Pardesi sepoy who read it to him. He gave it the next morning to Mr. Gadney. Post mark on the envelope showed it was posted 25th April, and delivered the same day.

Karamsey Jivan examined-in-chief said on 15th May last he was called to the office of the Police Inspector at Forjett Street. There he saw the fifth accused making a copy from a paper like the one shown to him. Witness next identified the copy made in his presence by the fifth accused. A man named Ramdass Gaurishankar was also there.

Cross-examined by Mr. Kolah, witness said, during this year this was the second occasion he had gone to assist the police as he thought he was bound to go if called for such a purpose.

Ramdass Gaurishankar was also examined on the same point.

Bambharaos Sarjuprasad, clerk, in Shri Venkatesh Press, examined-in-chief, said the original petition and copy were both in Devnagri characters. In his opinion both the documents were written by one and the same person.

Cross-examined, witness said, he had never given evidence as an expert, but every day he received about 200 letters in the course of his business. From the comparison of handwriting he said that both tallied. He said that from comparing several letters and words. There was no difference in the vowel strokes in both the writings. There might be some difference in some of the vowel marks, but on the whole he would say that they were in the same handwriting. He daily compared the handwriting of letters he received.

Mr. Jardine tendered both the petitions.

Mr. Mirza objected on behalf of his client.

Mr. Kolah also objected to its going in.

His Lordship over-ruled the objection and admitted the two petitions.

Mr. Jardine read the petitions to the Jury.

Mr. Jardine said this was evidence against the fifth accused only.

Nowroji Sorabji, head-foreman, Colaba Goods Depot, was the next witness called. He said he knew the second, third and fourth accused, and the approver Sheonath. They all worked under the witness. On the 20th March last the four men were present. Since the 21st March the fourth accused disappeared except that he came to receive his salary on the 14th April.

The third accused was responsible for the attendance of the men.

Cross-examined, witnessed said, he had no reason to believe that the men had disappeared that night.

The Sessions were then adjourned till 11 a.m. to-day.

The case for the prosecution was that a quarrel arose between the complainant and the accused, when the latter assaulted the complainant, who is his grand mother, and knocked out one of her teeth.

The Magistrate asked the accused whether he was willing to settle the case by paying compensation to the complainant. The accused replied that he was willing to do so and that he would pay her Rs. 5. His Worship suggested that that was too small a sum for a tooth. The accused then said he was willing to pay the complainant Rs. 10. The complainant, however, refused to accept that amount. The accused then offered Rs. 35, which the complainant accepted. The accused paid the complainant the money, and the case was accordingly marked as compounded and the accused was discharged.

SPORTING NEWS.

FOOTBALL.

The Harwood League.

GLOSTERS vs. COMMERCIAL GYMKHANA.

THERE was a fairly large crowd on the Cooperage last evening to witness the game between the above teams. The Commercial Gymkhana made several changes in their teams, a noticeable absentee being their fine left outside, Tweedle. It will, indeed, be unfortunate for the Gymkhana, if he cannot don their colours again this season, rumours being out to that effect.

The Glosters kicked off and at once made tracks for their opponents' goal, the latter however defending well, and transferring play to the Glosters' half. Play of a very even nature followed, the Gymkhana playing a surprisingly good game, and keeping their opponents at bay. Harris now ran nicely down and put in a pretty hot shot, Piper distinguishing himself with a fine save. A penalty kick being awarded the Glosters, Rucke taking it placed it well out of the goalkeeper's reach, in the corners of the net. There was no further score in this half, the interval arriving after a very even half with the Glosters leading by the one goal.

From the restart the Glosters began to press and several shots were cleverly saved by Piper, who along with the backs and half-backs of the Gymkhana, was playing excellently. At last after continuous pressure Hill with a good shot secured the second goal. The Gymkhana forwards made one or two visits to their opponents' goal, but never looked really dangerous. About ten minutes from time Hildreth with a terrific shot from about thirty yards' range, registered the third goal. Nothing further was scored, and a very fair game ended in a victory for the Military.

MADRAS HOCKEY TOURNAMENT.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

CALCUTTA, JUNE 29.

The Madras Hockey Tournament commences on Monday, and so far eight teams have entered, the Cameron Highlanders from Bangalore, the Sherwood Foresters from Trimulgherry, the Leicester Regiment from Secunderabad, the M. V. G. "A" and "B" Teams, the Dorset Regiment, the Bangalore Rifle Volunteers, and the M. C. C. The Cameron Highlanders make their first appearance in Madras, having arrived in India only lately, and it is hoped that they will give a very good account of themselves. The Bangalore Rifle Volunteers will also be making their appearance in Madras for the first time this year; they have big reputation locally, and will doubtless play up to it. As holders of the cup great things are expected of the Sherwood Foresters, while the Leicester team has been well known in the past. The Dorsets are the local team, and it is known they have been showing very much improved form this season. The M. V. G. show a very sporting spirit in entering two team's. The "A" teams performance has always been of an high order hitherto, and it may be expected that they will give a good show. The M. C. C. has been playing better than usual this year.

THE TAPTY-VALLEY RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—Your readers cannot yet have forgotten the terrible accident which occurred on the Tapty-Valley Railway on the 13th instant. More than 50 cattle were killed and the Parsi driver, and the fireman, lost their lives. The results of the accident would have been far more terrible but for the presence of mind of Mr. Naoroji Sorabji Cooper, the Guard, who, by what seems to be divine inspiration, put on the brake the moment he felt that there was something wrong in the front. The result was that the coupling of the waggon just behind those in which the cattle were stalled gave way, and the rear portion of the train was saved. But for this prompt action and presence of mind on the part of Mr. Naoroji, the guard, the loss of human life would have been almost as great as that in the Itola accident of three years' ago. Having saved so many human lives by inspired and prompt action, Mr. Naoroji ran post-haste to the nearest station to give information and wire for relief. The details of the accident published authoritatively in the press bear out all these facts. I was myself a passenger by the ill-fated train and can never forget the scene, nor the conviction that we all owed our lives to the prompt action of the guard. Such splendid service will, I trust, be appreciated and duly recognized by the Railway authorities. Accidents will happen now and again, but let us hope that in every such emergency there will be a Naoroji Sorabji Cooper to [illegible] may be under the guidance of Providence, who [illegible] instrumental in saving valuable human lives.—Yours, etc.

STANDARD BAROMETER READING.

The reading of the barometer at the Colaba Observatory corrected for index error and reduced to 32° F. and for Calcutta standard at 8 a.m. (local time) on the 29th June was 29·689 inches. The height of Observatory barometer cistern above zero of the tide gauge at Apollo Bunder is 47 feet. The height of tide in the stream above zero of the tide gauge was 7 feet at 8 a. m. (local time). The temperature correction for a mercurial barometer, supposing the reading to be 30·00 inches and that of the attached thermometer 80° F. will be ·14 inch and this will be higher and lower by ·01 inch for each 4 degrees. In the case of the aneroid no temperature correction is required. Should the height of barometer cistern, either mercurial or aneroid above zero of tide gauge be different from 47 feet, it will read higher or lower by ·01 inch for each 11 feet. The readings given above are distinct in from those given in the daily weather report, to which different corrections have been applied.

THE CHINESE CUSTOMS SERVICE.

Only a short time has elapsed since Mr. F. A. Aglen took over the post of Acting Inspector-General of the Imperial Maritime Customs, and there can be no suggestion of important changes in the Service, until the whole problem has been subjected to adequate consideration. But the desire to afford the Inspector General ample opportunity for such consideration must not be taken as an indication that public interest in the Service has exhausted itself with the transference of control from Sir Robert Bredon to Mr. Aglen. The expectations raised by the appointment have regard not only to the arrest of tendencies which are calculated to bring about the disintegration of the Service or at least to undermine its honesty and efficiency, but also to the placing of the internal organization on a far more satisfactory basis than hitherto. Ever since the establishment of the Shuiwuchu there has been a natural desire among foreigners in China to champion the cause of the independence of the Inspectorate-General. The success of the Customs is based on the circumstances that at a crucial time in China's affairs the Government found itself obliged to stand on one side and say to the foreigner, "There is our Customs Service; run it on any lines you like, so long as we can point to an assured income that will enable us to raise sufficient money to carry on the administration of the country." Accordingly, while the Customs was in its essence a Chinese service, the Chinese Government intended the foreign bondholders to see in the stability of its revenue the necessary security of their loans and to regard the British subject at the head of the Service as their special trustee. The proceeds of the Customs, it is true, are handed over without reservation to the Chinese Government which has merely undertaken to devote the money to a specific object; but thanks to the code of honour maintained by China in regard to her pledged word, the effect is the same as if the Inspector-General retained the Customs revenue and himself arranged for the regular payment of China's obligations. Hence the anxiety regarding the independence of the Inspectorate-General; for it once existing Chinese methods of administration—the shortcomings of which are as well known to the Chinese themselves as to foreigners—were introduced into the Chinese Service, the revenue and the necessary security for the loans could no longer be considered guaranteed.

The public memory is notoriously short-lived and this aspect of the Imperial Maritime Customs cannot be recalled too often. When Tang Shao-yi and his colleagues in Yuan Shih-kai's yamen instigated the edict of May 9, 1910, they honestly believed their countrymen's efficiency and intelligence to be equal to anything that Europe could produce and they can point to a chorus of foreign support for this contention. But they overlooked entirely an important feature, that directly the Chinese Government seeks to enforce its perfectly lawful authority over the Customs, it brings that Service into line with the remainder of the Chinese administration, with the possibility—or rather probability—of results as unsatisfactory to the country at large as in the case of the salt monopoly or of any other revenue-producing administration in China. The Chinese desire to control the Customs is as natural and legitimate as the desire to abolish extraterritoriality and place the persons and property of foreigners at the mercy of Chinese officials of the type of the Shanghai City Magistrate; but the impossibility of attainment should be made no less clear in the case of the control of the Customs than it is in regard to extraterritoriality. As things are to-day, this independence is threatened by the mere existence of a separate Board, such as the Shuiwuchu, charged with the specific function of "controlling" the Customs, and a permanent adjustment of the Customs problem cannot ignore the status of this Board of control. On the other hand this "Independence" of the Inspector-General, of which there are to-day so many champions, imposes upon him very serious obligations towards both the Service and foreign bond-holders, and it is the meeting of those obligations that must entail the most careful consideration on the part of Mr. Aglen.

In the earlier beginnings of the Maritime Customs it was not unnatural that the personal factor should predominate; and when there were only one or two hundred foreign employees in the service, Sir Robert Hart's system, probably, was better than any other. With fifteen hundred foreign employees the system becomes impossible and preposterous, unless it is carefully subordinated to safer methods of promotion. Unfortunately a policy of favouritism of a capricious type has been largely retained in the administration of the Customs Service in the state in which it has been taken over by Mr. Aglen. One of his first tasks, therefore, will be to evolve an impersonal Customs Service that will attract men of good standing by the soundness of the principles on which it is run, and the scope that it offers to brains and ability. A congested service can never answer these conditions, and it may be worth while considering whether the question of the existing numbers should not be grappled with without delay. The climatic and social unevenness of various stations in the Service offers a temptation to the exercise of favouritism. About half the Service is composed of British subjects, for whose benefit it may be said that no one attempts to exercise influence with the Inspector-General. The remainder are composed of various nationalities and for each member there is assured, should occasion arise, the powerful influence of his Legation in Peking. It should not be difficult to group different stations into grades of approximately equal attractiveness or unattractiveness and so ensure that every member of the staff has the same experience of the two kinds in the course of his career. Above all the present system of a septennial bonus with a compulsory holiday, no compulsory retirement and no retiring allowance should be abolished. It is distasteful to the Service as a whole, however pleasant to commissioners of twenty, thirty and forty years standing. The bonus system represents an annual payment of fourteen per cent of the salary received but the benefits are counteracted by the compulsory holiday for two years on half pay. On the pay of the foreign indoor staff for 1909 this rate represents and annual sum of £325,000, which under any other system would be available for pensions. With compulsory retirement at fifty-five or sixty years of age a system of pensions could be evolved which would prove far more satisfactory to the staff. Provision would also have to be made for leave, which might be quinquennial, ranging in duration from eight months to one years according to length of service. Other improvements in details will readily suggest themselves. The conditions to be aimed at are that the Service should be a contented one; that promotion, where other things are equal, should be by seniority, with distinctions made only for special merit not by favouritism; that there should be a reasonable prospect of promotion, which can be attained only by ensuring that the upper posts will not be held indefinitely by men who might reasonably be expected to retire on an adequate pension; and that the extraneous circumstances of each man's career shall be, as far as possible, identical. If Mr. Aglen succeeds in reorganizing the Maritime Customs on lines of permanent advantage to the Service, his name will occupy in its Annals as honoured a position as that of its virtual creator, Sir Robert Hart.—"N. C. Herald."

TWO AMERICAN EX-PRESIDENTS IN LONDON.

Fifty-five years ago two ex-Presidents of the United States were in London at the same time. On June 3, 1855, the American Minister, James Buchanan—himself elected to the Presidency in the following year—wrote to the Secretary of State at Washington, "Ex-Presidents Van Buren and Fillmore are now both here." During their stay they visited the House of Commons together, and a few days later John Bright took occasion to remark on the incident, speaking of them as "two of the distinguished men who have occupied the position of President of the United States, a position not lower in honour and dignity than that of any crowned monarch on the face ...globe."

The Hon. C. J. Smythe, the new Administrator of what is now known as the Province of Natal, is a Scotchman, and was born at Methven Castle, Scotland, of which his brother is at present the owner. He was educated at Trinity College, Glenalmond, and has been a farmer in Natal for over thirty years. Mr. Smythe has held the posts of Colonial Secretary and Prime Minister in the Garden Province, and it was during his tenure of the latter office that a serious difference of opinion arose between the Natal Ministry and the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Lord Elgin, in connexion with the execution of twelve natives at Richmond for rebellion and complicity in the murder of a European policeman. Mr. Smythe was also a delegate to the South African National Convention in 1908.

THE TWO SERVICES.

OUR POSITION IN DESTROYERS.

There is at last an awakening of the Admiralty to the importance of accelerating the building of destroyers. This is exemplified by the distribution of orders for the whole of the twenty boats in the current programme within the first ten weeks of the financial year. It is also satisfactory to find that the contracts have been placed fairly evenly among the firms who undertake the building of these craft. Six boats of a special design are to be built in equal proportions by Messrs. Yarrow & Co., Scotstown; Messrs. Thornycroft and Co., Southampton; and the Parsons Marine Steam Turbine Co., Wallsend, in association with Messrs. Denny Bros., Dumbarton. The allocation of order for the other fourteen boats is as follows:—Messrs. John Brown and Co., Clydebank, three; Messrs. Denny Bros., Dumbarton, two; Messrs. William Beardmore and Co., Dalmuir one; Messrs. Cammell, Laud and Co., Birkenhead two; Messrs Vickers, Sons, and Maxim, Barrow-in-Furness, one; Messrs. J. White and Co. East Cowes, two, Messrs. Hawthorn, Leslie and Co., Hebburn-on-Tyne, two; and Messrs. Swan Hunter and Co., Wallsend-on-Tyne, one. The distribution of work, in summery, is thus:—

Clyde.	Solent.	Tyne.	Mersey.	Barrow.
10	4	3	2	1

SUPERIOR COMBINATIONS.

Although these vessels have been ordered within the first quarter of the financial year, the Estimates provide for only £621,906 to be spent upon them up to the end of next March, or an[average]of less than £32,000 each. This is, however, five times as much as was provided last year for a similar number of destroyers which were not ordered till October, but in that case an additional sum was set apart for their advancement in the Supplementary Estimate. Consequently, as the contracts for the twenty boats in this year's programme have been placed very early, and the First Lord has promised that they shall be completed in eighteen months, it is impossible to resist the conclusion that the Admiralty have in view some supplementary provision for their construction. To this no exception should be taken when the time comes, having regard to the fact that, relatively we have fallen back in strength with destroyers, until there are at present no fewer than three two-Power combinations superior to us and two other Powers pressing us hard. Rivalry in destroyer programme has, in fact, never been so keen as now.

A DEPUTY COMMODORE.

The appointment of the last officer to command the Royal Naval Engineering College will terminate next month, when Captain Lionel Tufnell completes his two years' term. The number of engineer cadets—the remnant of the old entry system—has dwindled down to such small proportions that it is a misnomer to speak of the college as a captain's command, and in the circumstances Captain Tufnell will no doubt be glad when the time arrives for him to relinquish the appointment. This will correspond with the time when Commodore Bosslyn Wemyss has temporarily to vacate the command of the Royal Naval Barracks, Devonport for the purpose of accompanying His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught to South Africa as the representative of the King, on the occasion of the opening of the Union Parliament, and the Admiralty are understood to have approved of Captain Tufnell assuming charge of the barracks during Commodore Wemyss' absence. So that from the command of an establishment with a[ ]aers handfull of occupants, Captain Tufnell will go to an adjoining one, which has two or three thousand officers and men borne on its books.

GERMAN GUNS AND GUNNERY.

Apparently the Germans do not mean to be left behind in the matter of mounting the heaviest effective guns that manufacturers can produce on board their battleships. Hardly has the new 13.5in. gun entered the arena of practical weapons in our own Navy than a German weapon of equal calibre, and as far as can be judged, of approximately equal power, looms on the horizon. At any rate an effective 13.5in. piece of ordnance has recently been tested at Essen, and highly satisfactory results are believed to have been obtained, although the date of the tests have been kept as secret as possible. Another item of gunnery news which reaches us from over the North Sea should also be taken note of on this side of those waters. It is that the gunnery ...s of the Kaiser's Navy have fully realised the importance of being able to deal effectively with torpedo-craft when they attack at night; and for some time past experiments have constantly been carried out with a view to discover the best method of beating off destroyers delivering an attack after darkness falls. Some of the latest of these tests are reported as having established the superiority of the gun when ships are well handled and the men behind the gun are reliable shots. Experiments are also constantly going forward for the same purpose in the British Navy; but success does not always lay with the g...t to achieve this end on all occasions even more strenuous efforts than heretofore will now have to be adopted.

THE DOOMED BATTLESHIP.

Once more the question is being raised as to the comparative value of the gun and the torpedo, for the[ ]e problem involved when we are asked, "Are "Dreadnoughts" Useless?" The evil result of arriving at a wrong conclusion in this connection is abundantly displayed in the present condition of the French Navy. It appears to us that some of those publicists who have been discussing this matter in the papers lately have confined their attention too closely to the problem of naval warfare in the North Sea, and have omitted from their consideration the naval needs and contingencies of a world-wide Empire. It is not for the first time that we are asked to believe that the torpedo carrier has got the better of the gun carrier, but we have no evidence in the occurrences of naval warfare to support such a conclusion. On the contrary, the facts are all the other way about. It is true, of course, that since the battle of Tsushima the torpedo has been immensely improved, both as regards accuracy and range. So, also, have the vessels which are carried of this particular kind of war machine, whether for use above or below the surface of the water. But the gun carrier has also been improved, and it is by no means certain that if a torpedo were exploded against the hull of a vessel constructed as our later battleships and cruisers are, it would sink her or even seriously damage her fighting powers. That is one consideration, and another is that no vessel constructed solely as a torpedo carrier has yet been given the habitability and seaworthiness to fit her to act in any waters. Even in the North Sea it is possible to conceive a battle taking place outside the practical range of any existing torpedo carrier of the kind we have referred to. A very favourite argument with those who favour the torpedo carrier is its comparative cheapness. This was the rock upon which the French navy split. Moreover, in order to support the argument of cheapness, it is necessary to exaggerate the cost of the battleship, and underestimate the cost of the torpedo-boat or submarine which is to replace it.

BATTERY CLASSIFICATION.

There is a certain amount of grumbling to be heard at present among the field officers of the artillery in regard to the alleged severity of the new classification test. Under it 100 marks are awarded for fire discipline and tactics and another 100 for completely destroying the target within a fixed space of time. A battery which in each subject gets 85 marks is classified "special," those getting 70 are "first-class," and those with 55 are "qualified." Conversely, also, a battery might make 90 marks for discipline and tactics, yet if it made only 50 for fire effect on the twenty or twenty-five targets which it has to engage during annual practice it would be classed as "not qualified," and would have to listen to many uncomplimentary remarks from superior authority as to its efficiency. There appears, therefore, a tendency among these victims of fate to contend that bad weather or other accidents prevent them from getting the "first-class," which is, as they contend, really their due, while some batteries, such as those armed with howitzers, complain that they are handicapped by having to use up a job lot of old ammunition. These stories are certainly very affecting, and without doubt the system admits of an element of luck common to most terrestrial schemes, but they do not convert us to the view that classification should be immediately abolished. The badges to be obtained are greatly prized by the men, and if done away with a great inducement to excel would be lost.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

DR. PROSSER JAMES,
Lecturer on Materia Medica, London Hospital.
"Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL combines the whole of the active ingredients of the remedy, and is easily digested. Hence its value, not only in Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, but in a great number of cases to which the Profession is extending its use."

DR. HUNTER SEMPLE,
Physician to the Hospital for Diseases of the Throat and Chest, London.
"I have long been aware of the great reputation enjoyed by the LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL introduced into medical practice by Dr. DE JONGH, and have recommended it with the utmost confidence. I have no hesitation in stating my opinion, that it possesses all the qualities of a good and efficient medicine. Its taste is by no means disagreeable, and might even be called pleasant. I have found Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL very useful in cases of Chronic Cough, and especially in Laryngeal Disease complicated with Consumption."

DR. SAUNDERS, C.B.,
Late Deputy-Inspector-General Army Hospitals, Superintendent London Medical Mission.
"I have used Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL extensively among the sick poor of St. Giles's, and consider it a valuable remedy, especially in the Wasting Diseases of Children."

DR. WHITMORE,
Medical Officer of Health, St. Marylebone, London.
"Imparts somewhat lengthened experience as a Medical Practitioner enables me with confidence to recommend Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL as being nearly uniform in quality, more certain in its effects, more palatable, and infinitely less likely to disagree with the stomach than the Pale Oil. If I were asked for an explanation of the general success which for so many years has attended the administration of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL I should say that it is owing to its extraordinary medicinal, dietetic, and restorative properties, and which are found to exist in no other pre-ration that I am acquainted with in such uniform combination.
